Summary of Events:

Before the croquet match had a chance to start, or the procession had taken place, Her Royal Majesty, the Queen of Hearts, and the Duchess got into a spat that ended with both getting physical. No one knows what the initial argument was about, it was hard to make out exactly what was being said through all the screaming and hitting. The Duchess managed to get the upper hand in the altercation and aggressively boxed the Queen's ears before Card Guards managed to subdue her.

The Duchess was promptly thrown into prison for the altercation, where she's expected to await processing after the croquet match. Guards on scene reported the Queen having said she'll either be executed or let go after the match.
